Common Reactions to Trauma – Adults

Below are some common symptoms and reactions of adults who have been through a trauma. (Mark those you are experiencing.)

Behavioral	Affective (Emotions)	Somatic (Physical)
Avoidance behaviors:	Numb/Emotionally shut down	Difficulty sleeping
 Using alcohol or medications to 	Shocked	Nightmares
numb	Anxious/Fearful	Stomach problems
 Wanting to leave or escape the 	Fear of recurrence	Pounding heart
current living situation	Agitated	Shortness of Breath/Hyperventilation
 Overly involved in work as way 	Frustrated	Chest Pains of not thinking about what	Overwhelmed	Loss of appetite
happened	Anger (at self, others, God)	Muscle Tremors
Abandonment of fun activities	Resentment	Loss of Coordination
Less productive	Mood swings	Headaches
Losing or misplacing things	Sad	Muscle soreness
Easily startled	Helpless	Dryness of mouth and throat
Hyper-alert to environment	Guilty	Frequent need to urinate
Tearful	Loss of sense of humor	Grinding teeth
Slowed down		Weight change (gain or loss)
Pacing		Feeling of exhaustion and fatigue
Aimless wandering		Change in sexual functioning or desire
Risky/self-destructive behavior

Common Reactions to Trauma – Adults

Below are some common symptoms and reactions of adults who have been through a trauma. (Mark those you are experiencing.)

Interpersonal (Relationships)	Cognitive (Thoughts)	Spiritual
Irritable	Disoriented	Feeling God is punishing you
Insensitive	Confused	Feeling God doesn't love you
Loss of interest in others	Poor concentration	Feeling God is distant
Isolated/withdrawn	Poor decision-making	Disappointed with God
Violent/aggressive	Trouble prioritizing	Questioning long-held beliefs
Critical of others	Poor memory
Insecure	Poor attention (not retaining information)
Avoiding intimacy	Preoccupied with trauma memories
Suspicious	Increased rigidity and closed thinking
Clingy	Absolute thinking
Hypersensitive (feelings easily hurt)	(I will never; this always)
	Negative/critical judgments against self
	(I am such a failure)
	Hindsight thinking
	(If only; why didn't)
	Flashbacks or other intrusive imagery

Conclusion: Each person is unique in how they respond to a trauma. Your response may not be the same as another person who has gone through the same or a similar experience. With time, after you work through these reactions, it's very likely that you will be even stronger than you were before the crisis. Even after many of the memories are gone and you are feeling much better, there may still be things which "trigger' these reactions and painful memories. If these symptoms become very intense and persist over a long period of time, or if you are noticing impairment in your work or relationships, you may want to consider talking with a counselor who specializes in trauma.